New Online Project Management Class Available

Claims are an unfortunate part of being an electrical contractor. Your role as electrical project manager is essential to making claim resolution a smoother process. Identifying Claims discusses how electrical project managers can act to prevent claims before they occur and quantify claims that do occur. Participants will learn the documentation that will be reviewed in a claim, identify the behaviors that can lead to a claim, ways to prevent claims, learn how to quantify a potential claim, how to document consequential cost

These percentages continue to increase and present an opportunity to not only bring back the NECA • BICSI Summit (June 26-28) but also launch a brand new NECA Service & Maintenance Conference (June 28-29). Both conferences will take place in Denver, Colorado!
